Brightwater builds a home product significantly above high volume builders. They understand how to execute design themes very well and they guided us through the design process in a very effective manner.

Although this is our first custom home, we have friends who built homes in the past year with other builders. Hearing their stories made me somewhat terrified of building, but from the start I know Brightwater was a different company. From the onset everyone has been professional, easy to work with and do the right thing no matter what. I would absolutely use them again!

I would never recommend Brightwater to anyone. I would work with Michael Robinson again but nobody else in the company.
